

Governors plentiful for GOP's VP choice

By GEORGE J. MARDER
MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—The list of Republican hopefuls for the vice presidential nomination is as long as the line outside a Hollywood producer's office on casting day.

There are 26 GOP governors, and just about every one can be considered a possibility. Some seem better prospects than others, of course.

The governors most often mentioned as vice presidential possibilities include: Tom McCall, Oregon; Daniel J. Evans, Washington; John A. Volpe, Massachusetts; Spiro T. Agnew, Maryland; George Romney, Michigan; James A. Rhodes, Ohio; Raymond P. Shafer, Pennsylvania; and Claude Kirk, Jr., Florida.

To that list must be added the names of two who are contenders for top place on the ticket—Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and Ronald Reagan of California. Both say they do not want second place and Rockefeller insists he wouldn't take it.

But history and the surprise developments of this topsy-turvy political year caution against ruling them out.

Push For Veep
Some Reagan supporters seem to be working to get second place for him on a ticket with Richard M. Nixon, if the former vice president wins the presidential nomination. Whether this is being done with Reagan's blessing is now known. Outside the field of Republican governors the list of vice presidential possibilities is headed ed by Senators Charles A. Percy of Illinois, Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon and Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts, and Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York City.

All four are young, progressive, have appeal to urban areas where the election will be decided, and at times have been dovish on Vietnam, with Hatfield possibly the most dovish of the four.

Mayor Lindsay is deficient in one ticket-balancing respect—geography—if the No. 1 spot goes to Nixon or Rockefeller, both of whom are legal residents of New York state.

The Constitution says a presidential elector cannot vote for both a president and a vice president from his own state. Thus a Nixon-Lindsay ticket, for example, by strict interpretation of the Constitution, would forfeit the electoral votes of New York for the No. 2 spot.

Circumvent Law
Some legal experts think a way out could be found by having one or the other change his legal residence after the November election and before the Electoral College votes in December. The question would then arise, however, whether that might be considered playing hanky-panky with the Constitution.

Brooke has one special advantage. He is the only Negro in the U.S. Senate and could help the party get votes in any area where the GOP admittedly is weak. Some Republican politicians say a GOP candidate must carry from 5 to 10 per cent more Negro votes than normal if it hopes to win in 1968.

Both Nixon and Rockefeller, and their aides have encouraged wide open speculation about their choice of a running mate, pointedly raising some hopes and discouraging no one. That's a time-tested strategy in the race for the number one spot.

Past history suggests that no firm commitments have yet been made to anyone, and it is altogether likely that no final decisions will be made until the convention.

Fair has last stand tonight; animals give way to do-si-do

Tomorrow the Putnam County fairgrounds will be under a mountain of empty paper cups and wrappers. Muddy tire marks left by cattle and swine trucks will be a reminder of the week's activities.

The job of cleaning-up after a record attendance crowd will face fair officials.

But tonight the gala midway lights are still attracting fairgoers and the sound of the Virginia Reel will be coming from the commercial building square dance.

Folk rock music will blast out of the "Young America's Fair" and compete with the carnival sounds across the midway.

County amateur talent will gather for the finals of a week long search for the fair talent champion. The finals will be at 7:30 p.m. in the show arena. The open performance horse show will continue through the evening.

Yesterday the 4-H dairy judge, Roy Walters, decided to place championship rosettes to experienced winners. Of the five breed won in previous years.

A grand champion is not selected overall in the dairy judging.

Sara Brookshire, 14-year-old Roachdale showman, had the most competition. She won the championship Holstein class from among 90 entries. Her first such championship, she has been showing five years. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E.D. Brookshire.

Denise Zeiner, 16, Fillmore, was well familiar with the championship ring in the Guernsey division. She has won there five years including from 1963 to 1966. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernie Zeiner, she did not win last year, but had the reserve champion. She is a junior at Bainbridge High School. Becky McFarland, 17, a Bainbridge graduate and a contestant in the queen contest, won the champion Jersey division for the fourth straight year. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gene McFarland, Miss McFarland was also the top winner in the Dress.

Male students take back seat

Already waging a losing battle of the sexes during a Leap Year, DePauw University's male students also lost the academic round, according to grade reports issued yesterday by Registrar Value Williams.

The university's impartial computer showed that women outsmarted men during the recently completed second semester for the 24th consecutive year.

The campus' nearly 1,200 coeds earned a grade average of 2.83 on a 4.00 (A) scale. That was their second best effort in history.

Yet, a nearly equal number of men received grades that averaged 2.62, the men's lowest report card average since 1965 and well off last year's record of 2.64.

As a team, the two averages produced a combined 2.74 reading, the second highest on the Registrar's academic books.

By contrast, DePauw scholars 10 years ago were somewhat less productive. Women earned a 2.73; men had a 2.60, and the all-university average hovered at 2.66.

Truck driver killed on 231

A motorist was killed Friday in an accident on a hill where a highway broadens into three lanes for slow-moving truck traffic.

Neil G. Kessler, 64, Worthington Route 1, braked and skidded into the path of a semi-trailer truck driven by John E. Hampton, Jr., 41, Evansville, on U.S. 231 in Owen County about five miles north of Spencer.

Kessler was killed, Hampton was unhurt, although his truck plunged over an embankment.

Police said Kessler was passing another truck which was moving up the hill in a third lane and apparently applied the brakes when he decided he could not get past the truck before the third lane ended.

Clean windows and parking tickets, life returns to normal

By Penelope Blaker

With the 1968 Putnam County Fair nearing the close, life in downtown Greencastle begins the journey back to the routine, Friday morning.

The County Extension Office, for example, gained a new assistant.

When Betty Sendmeyer, County Extension Agent, Home Economics, went to work, a tiny gray and white kitten "adopted" her. The kitten, lost, strayed or abandoned, evidently decided that Betty would be a friend. So it followed her up the court house steps and into the office.

While Mrs. Sendmeyer spent the morning finishing lists of 4-H winners and tabulating final records, the kitten played on the floor. Occasionally it would charm a visitor into a few minutes of play.

The little silver bells on its green collar tinkled as it rolled and jumped, purring all the time.

After sharpening its claws on the burlap front of Mrs. Sendmeyer's desk, the kitten, which has no name, strolled out into the front office, looked around, and settled down for a morning nap in the middle of the floor.

The halls of the Courthouse echoed with the hollow sounds of footsteps. Little action prevailed. Even the benches lining the first floor walls were nearly empty, a sight seldom seen on a cool summer day.

Meanwhile at City Hall, the firemen were engaged in a bout of belated spring cleaning. The windows of the fire station glistened and sparkled. But three firemen, Capt. Herman Wallace, Paul Patterson and Jim Sparks, will probably be moving a little slower for a few days.

All was quiet in the Police Department. A new sign, to be erected on the Courthouse lawn, rests in the entrance of the department. The sign is a score card, depicting the number of traffic injuries and fatalities in Greencastle during 1968 in comparison with the tabulations for 1967. It is hoped, according to Police Captain Bill Masten, that the sign will be a grim reminder for motorists in Greencastle to drive with care.

A word of caution: sometimes reporters receive parking tickets, even if they are visiting the police station, at the time the ticket is issued.

And so, life returns to normal.

No time change for Indiana

CHICAGO (UPI)—A three-judge federal panel Friday ordered an indefinite stay of execution of a lower court order which would have required Indiana to obey the 1966 Uniform Time Act.

The judges continued a one-week stay granted last Saturday by Judge Luther M. Swygert, one of three U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals judges who issued the ruling Friday.

The stay kept 43 Indiana counties in the eastern half of the state from being required to move their clocks forward one hour to operate on Eastern Daylight Saving Time the remainder of the summer and up to the last Sunday in October.

The compliance with Holder's order originally was scheduled for last Sunday morning, but Swygert granted a one-week stay pending the filing of briefs.

Reserves train with gunships

COLUMBUS, Ind. (UPI)—About 350 Hoosiers recently called to active duty are training in modified C-119 gunships, a Bakalar Air Force Base spokesman said Thursday, but there has been no confirmation that the men will be sent to Vietnam.

The Air Force announced that members of the 930th Tactical Airlift reserve group, which had been based at Bakalar, were beginning the gunship training at Lockbourne AFB in Ohio.

"The City of Columbus," a modified C-119 gunship was recently sent to Vietnam for combat duty, although its crew was not from the 930th.

Donwake Gloria makes debut at county fair

Donwake Gloria Model Martha is 14-years-old. She is a registered Holstein and, according to her owner, Eric Boesen, she is probably the oldest cow in the county.

In her lifetime, "Martha" has yielded some 80,000 quarts of milk.

One of her sons is being shown at the Putnam County Fair. In fact, Martha made her public debut during the Fair. She was shown in the Aged Cow division of the Dairy Show, Friday morning. Of the event, Boesen says, "She is a grandmother in comparison to the other cows."

Boesen purchased Donwake Gloria Model Martha from Dr. Donald Gerrish, North Terre Haute, when she was three or four years old.

Since that time she has grazed with the other 50 to 60 head of cows Boesen keeps on his dairy farm at Greencastle Route 2.

The dairy farm itself is not young. It was started in 1905 by Boesen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J.E. Boesen.

Boesen says the 14-year-old cow has received no special care. She is fed "hay and grain, mostly."

The normal life expectancy of cows, according to Boesen, is eight or nine years. He adds that most people judge her age to be four to six years. He then comments that "she is really a good looking cow."

Several factors are used to determine the age of a cow. Usually with the advent of age they begin to look skinny. They also begin acquiring gray hairs.

Boesen says that Donwake Gloria Model Martha has few gray hairs.

She weighs approximately 1500 pounds. Last year she was classified at "87", which, according to Boesen is a very good rating, especially for a cow of her age.

Vicki Judy, 19, a sophomore at Indiana State University was the other showman to win a dairy breed championship for the first time. She showed an Ayrshire. Also having the champion Ayrshire at the Russellville Tri-County 4-H fair, Miss Judy's family has won the local County breed championship for the past four years. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Judy. She was last year's Putnam County fair queen.

Reserve champions by breed and township were: Holstein, Terry Tipping, Bainbridge; Ayrshire, Gary Judy, Bainbridge; Guernsey, Donna Fruits, Russellville; Jersey, Becky McFarland, Bainbridge.

Shun favorite son roll

Reagan forces plan for three way GOP race

By RAYMOND LAHR
MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—The race for the Republican presidential nomination was openly transformed into a three-way contest Friday by development of an operating campaign organization for Ronald Reagan.

James W. Halley, San Francisco attorney and California GOP chairman, announced that he would serve—at Reagan's request—as floor manager for the California governor at the Republican National Convention. Reagan has maintained his label as California's favorite son candidate, but Halley pointed out at a news conference that the governor had said he could be considered a candidate once his name went before the convention which opens Monday.

Reagan's biggest single base of support is his own state's 86 delegates to vote for him until released, although they are not legally bound.

Asked if he thought Reagan could be nominated against the competition of the front-running Richard M. Nixon and Nelson A. Rockefeller, Halley said, "it is possible."

He said there is "A considerable amount of interest and support" for Reagan in all sections of the country and that he believes the support will grow before the presidential balloting on Wednesday.

But the emergence of a functioning Reagan organization did not seem to bother Nixon camp leaders.

John N. Mitchell, Nixon's national campaign manager, met with reporters to forecast again that Nixon would win the nomination "on a very early ballot."

Mitchell said that as of 10 o'clock this morning his pro-Nixon delegate count was "well over 700." He said, however, that this could not be equated with a definite first ballot victory because of favorite son candidates.

Mitchell also said Nixon

"certainly" would consider a Southerner as a running mate—particularly since surveys by the Nixon organization indicated that the former vice president would run well in the south.

The possibility, if Nixon receives the nomination, of his running with a southerner, developed from a report by Mitchell on research Nixon has undertaken with party leaders to develop a list of qualified persons for the vice presidential nomination.

The republican platform writers, meanwhile, continued a painstaking effort to come up with a campaign document that rival camps would buy with the least squabbling.

The process was taking longer than Chairman Everett M. Dirksen had hoped, partly because of time spent on phraseology as opposed to substance.

But Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said Friday agreement at least had been reached between rural and urban representatives on the platform committee on planks dealing with the plight of cities.

"I think we've got an understanding now," Javits told reporters.

One of the most controversial planks will deal with the GOP approach to urban violence and decay. According to Javits, committee members from rural areas fail "to sense the urgency of solving the crises in the city."

Supporters of massive urban aid programs "have lost some but we have won some," Javits said. "I think the plank is realistic now in that it takes a problem-solving approach rather than trying to ride over the issue in a doctrinaire fashion." As for ghetto violence, a draft plank is "pretty tough right now," according to Sen. Karl Mundt, R-S.D., another member.

As a member of the ship's crew he shares in the record earned in Vietnam when Newport News fired more than 59,000 rounds at enemy supply routes, logistics craft, troop movements and artillery positions.

The citation lauded the crewmembers for "constantly surpassing all previous records in every phase of naval gunfire support operations."

Office to aid minority groups

LAFAYETTE, Ind.,--Purdue University is establishing an Office of Special Counseling Services for Negro and foreign students and veterans with an adviser to give legal advice to students who raise questions about civil rights.

Named to the office's staff are Mrs. Ann L. Redmon, adviser for Negroes and Arthur H. Tichenor Jr., adviser for foreign students.

A university spokesman said Mrs. Redmon will develop a special orientation program for newly enrolled Negroes and an academic tutoring program for those who need it. She will also help Negroes find off-campus housing and help develop special programs to attract students to Purdue from disadvantaged environments.

Tichenor, continuing work he has done as assistant dean of men, will help foreign students find living quarters, counsel them on personal problems and assist them with documents and language problems.

The legal advisor for civil rights has not yet been appointed.

Birth rate lowest in history

WASHINGTON (UPI)--The U.S. Census Bureau reports that the U.S. birth rate in 1967 was the lowest in the nation's history.

According to statistics released Thursday, there were less than 18 births per 1,000 people last year.

Although the death rate also declined--from 9.5 in 1966 to 9.3 per 1,000 last year--the bureau said the overall U.S. population growth rate was still lower than at any point since 1945.

Census officials said the diminished birth rate stems from a growing trend toward family planning by American couples. Many couples, for example, have been postponing the birth of their first child for several years and then limiting family size.

The net population gain of 2.1 million in 1967 pushed the nation over the 200 million mark. During the year 3.6 million babies were born, 1.9 million persons died and 443,000 immigrants entered the country, the bureau reported.

Earlham College receives grant for Upward Program

RICHMOND--A grant of $4,000 was received Aug. 1, by Earlham College from the Dana Foundation in Toledo, Ohio, to help underwrite the cost of the Upward Bound program sponsored by the college for the past three years.

Presentation of the grant was made to Earlham College by G. Robert Baer, Hagerstown, president of Perfect Circle Divisions of Dana Corp.

Recognizing the need to assist in the education of high school students with college potential who live in impoverished or disadvantaged environments, Earlham elected in 1966 to participate in the Upward Bound program despite financial problems similar to those of other private colleges.

With major support from the Office of Economic Opportunity, Earlham has enrolled over 175 students from Richmond, Ind., Dayton, Cincinnati and Troy, Ohio, areas in the Upward Bound program over the three-year period. Earlham's direct cost for the program has been $37,350.

Landrum R. Bolling, president of the college, likens Earlham's program of educational assistance for the disadvantaged to "a family on relief taking in an orphan."

Lodge story presented to Public Library

The Greencastle-Putnam County Library recently received the book, "Henry Cabot Lodge", by William Miller. The book was presented to the library, in memory of Edna Best Wendell, by the American Legion Auxiliary.

It is described as a fascinating study of a man who has served his country long and well. He has been prominent in American affairs for more than 30 years. A graduate of Harvard, he won election to the United States Senate while in his early thirties.

He was decorated for heroism in World War II and was appointed U.S. Representative to the United Nations by President Dwight Eisenhower, serving from 1953 to 1960.

In 1960 he became the Republican vice-presidential candidate. He was twice appointed U.S. Ambassador to Vietnam, where he was acclaimed for his leadership.

Miller, the author, has known Mr. Lodge for several years. His biography flows easily and well as he gives a colorful picture of this citizen on many talents, who has served in so many areas of American public life.

Injured

HOLLAND, Mich. (UPI)--Kenneth Oring, 57, Lakeville, Ind., was injured Tuesday night at the Ottawa County Fair during a harness race.

Blue is the color of my true love's eyes.

The brilliant blue of bright October skies. The hazy blue of mid-December. The soft and gentle blue of April. These are the moods of my true love's eyes.

Blue is a crystal bottle sitting in a window. The sun sends silvery light and diamonds glisten in the crystal-cut design.

Blue sparkles. Mountains, tall and majestic, reach to the sky with a throbbing prayer of reverence. A lake nestles between the mass of the mountains, reflecting their snow-capped tops. Tall and stately pine trees encircle the lake and dance along the mountain sides.

And the lake is blue. It is night. A blanket of snow warms the barren earth. The trees and shrubs are sugar-dusted. An awkward, funny snowman stands alone in the yard. His coal button eyes are black, flecked with tiny white drops. His carrot nose is long and cold. And his tall black hat is spotted with snow. His shadow is blue.

Blue is a world of beauty and sadness. The moon-world of a spring night is full of love. Its shadows and cries are blue. A tiny bird flutters in its nest. It, too, is blue.

Under the softness of blue spring skies the lovers pause. The shade of the willow tree is blue.

Good-bye is blue. It is the haunting refrain of a special song vibrating softly through the velvet blue of midnight. It is a night remembered.

Happiness is blue. It is a frothy white evening dress, dappled with blue beads and sashed with blue chiffon.

Blue is candlelight. It is a purple-toned violet peeping shyly through the spring grass. Sometimes, for a fleeting moment, when hearts are parted and love is hushed, blue is a tear.

...a blue tear. Sometimes it is a cry. Sometimes it is a blue cry. Sometimes blue is lonely. Sometimes it is sad.

A blue tear fell from her eyes. And blue is the color of my true love's eyes.

Turn off gas in INDIANAPOLIS (UPI)--The Richmond Gas Corp. Thursday asked the Indiana Public Service Commission to require the City of Richmond to serve notice on all "interested parties" in the municipality petition to have gas service discontinued in the downtown area.

The utility replied to a July 18 petition by the city which sought to have gas shut off from the downtown area in which an April 6 explosion killed 41 persons.

"A number of customers who can use gas for various purposes essential to carrying on their business operations and other customers who require gas for cooking and heating" would be affected by the proposed petition, the utility said.

If you'll notice, there's always about an inch or so of extra band in the back part. Every person I know who alters clothes, always takes off the entire band, takes out the tucks, etc.

Fiddle de dee! It's not necessary.

I just bought two pairs and found that if I use a razor blade, I can rip one side of the band off starting near the button where that extra inch or so is hanging over. Then take the band and "rip" just across the back part (don't even bother to rip the whole band off--only half). That doggone stretch jean will stretch perfectly so that you can sew that back band on again. It will stretch that extra inch or two while you sew it.

This means I don't have to alter any tucks whatsoever. But I must rip out instead of cutting each stitch.

You'll still have to set that little ole button over on the end. But with all the stretch jeans we buy that just AIN'T big enough through the middle, why not try this method? Heloise

P. S. Oh, I forgot to tell you that all you have to do after you rip the back waistband off is put the edge of it under your sewing machine, pull the body of the jean so it will stretch open while you sew it back on that extra bit of material which comes on the band. (If you have to, you can open the tucks and make 'em smaller). It exactly fits the band, thus no further alterations are necessary.

DEAR HELOISE:

My husband liked the idea of wearing shirt-jacks with his summer working uniforms. But there was too much difference in price from regular shirts.

I bought the ordinary shirts with the straight-across bottoms, turned them up to the desired length and hemmed them. Then I put grippers at the bottom front where the two edges came together and at the side seams.

Presto! Shirt-jacks that are cool, neat, less expensive, and which can be opened flat for going through the ironer. I used grippers instead of buttons which might pop off.

DEAR HELOISE:

Let you never heard of shortening dresses and skirts by just doing NOTHING to them!

All you have to do is put on weight! All my dresses and skirts are a good length now right to the knee.

K. R. B.

DEAR HELOISE:

My husband taped the patching kit which holds items to patch inner tubes, air mattresses, etc., to the tire pump so it is always there when you need it.

No more hunting around when the kids want something patched and pumped up in a hurry.

Mrs. Jim Mackey

DEAR HELOISE:

When using plastic lids for coasters, I find that the glass sweats and water collects in the lid. The glass then sticks to the lid when you raise it and the water drops on you.

I solved this by crocheting solid round pieces to fit inside the lids.

They can go right into the washer with the laundry. I flatten mine out on top of the dryer or the top of my kitchen range to dry.

T. R. C.

DEAR HELOISE:

May I tell you how I make powdered drink popicles for my children on hot summer days?

Instead of using all water, I use three-fourths cup milk (yes, I said milk), and one-fourth water. Add your flavors, plus the sugar desired. Pour into ice cube trays and freeze.

Children love them and they don't get as hard as ice.

G. T. Job named to DePauw post

DePauw University's new director of publications will be Glenn T. Job, former associate news editor at Michigan State University.

The appointment of the 43-year-old Job to the newly-created post was announced this week by President William E. Kerstetter. Job will be responsible for writing and editing all official university publications, including the "Alumnus" magazine. It marks the first time that the university's family of publications has been concentrated in the hands of one person.

At Michigan State, from which he was graduated with a B.A. in journalism in 1951, Job has written news releases, edited a newsletter dealing with MSU's international programs, and been a contributing editor to Format, an award-winning faculty-staff publication.

G. T. Job

Prior to joining the Michigan State staff Job was director of the News Bureau and edited the alumni magazine at Muhlenberg College in Allentown, Pa., and served 11 years on Michigan daily newspapers in Benton Harbor and Niles.

Job, who received his M.A. from Michigan State this year, is a native of St. Joseph, Michigan. He is married and has children, ages 15, 12, 10 and 2.

Hoosier golf champ loses USGA opener

BROOKLINE, Mass. (UPI)—Bill Kratzert, 16, Fort Wayne, Ind., lost his opening match in the USGA Junior Golf tourney here Thursday 1-up to Richard Monkman, Wilmington, Del.

Kratzert won the Indiana Amateur tourney last month, the youngest champion in history.

Jack Bowsher enters State Fair Century

Jack Bowsher of Springfield, Ohio, one of the fastest rising United States Auto Club stock car stars, has found himself in the off position of rooting for one of his competitors this season.

Bowsher is running well up in the USAC stock car standings himself. But A.J. Foyt of Houston, Texas, is leading the driver standings in another car owned and prepared by Bowsher. So Jack has his eye on capturing the top spot in the stock car owner point standings.

Both Bowsher and Foyt will be driving 1968 Ford Torinos from the Bowsher stable in the State Fair Century late model stock car race at the Indiana State Fairgrounds Friday night, August 23.

Bowsher's racing luck hasn't been too good so far this year and he has been running behind "hired hand" Foyt most of the time. But Jack did come through with a double win in two 50-mile championship races at the half-mile at New Bremen, Ohio, on June 16. He also was the fastest qualifier on the occasion.

Getting relief help from Parnelli Jones, Bowsher's own car finished fourth in the Indy 250 at Indianapolis Raceway Park May 5, as Foyt roared from the tail end of the field to victory. Bowsher also finished third in the Milwaukee 200 July 14 and captured sixth in the first of two 100-milers at Mosport, Canada, July 20.

Bowsher had mechanical problems in the Indiana Classic at the Fairgrounds June 22 and completed only seven laps, placing next to last. The 37-year-old Bowsher finished third in the USAC stock driver standings last year, five spots in front of Foyt.

Jack registered four victories in 18 starts that campaign. He also had two seconds, two thirds and two fourths. He won $17,403 in official purse money in the division.

The Century, opening night feature of the Indiana State Fair, is scheduled for 8 p.m., following.

Worried
ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The Very Rev. Paul C. Reinert, S.J., president of St. Louis University, reported on a letter he received when the basketball team decided to play their home games at the St. Louis Arena, where the National Hockey League Blues play.

"Don't go to the Arena, the basketball players can't run fast on ice," Father Reinert quoted the letter writer.

Maybe That's Why
NEW YORK (UPI) — Fred Caposella, commentator on "The Schaefer Circle of Sports," says proudly that he hasn't made a wager in 34 years. What's so unusual about that? Caposella is the race caller at Aqueduct, Belmont, Saratoga and Hialeah race tracks.

Best at Home
BALTIMORE (UPI) — The Baltimore Colts compiled the best home field record in the National Football League in 1967, winning six and tying once in seven appearances in Memorial Stadium.

Like Father, etc.
ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Ed LaMears and his son, members of the St. Louis Rotary Club Bowling Association, finished the season with identical averages—173.

One Gal, Two Firsts
NEW YORK (UPI) — Catherine Lacoste of France was the first foreigner and the first amateur to win the women's U.S. Open golf title. She won the crown in 1967 at Hot Springs, Va.

Doughty Don
LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Don Drysdale of the Los Angeles Dodgers holds the major league record for consecutive scoreless innings pitched, with a string of 58¹/₂ innings of shutout baseball.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

THERE'S A grey-haired widower in the Bedford Hills sector, not particularly noted for his impetuosity or his generosity, who's been romancing a plump widow in a desultory fashion for over three years now. She finally told him, "Either you produce the ring, my love, or you go peddle your papers elsewhere." "You're too fat," was his last defense. "Lose forty pounds and I'll pop the question." "It's a deal," nodded the widow. Now, twice a week, he turns up with a five-pound box of candy.

Plump Jack Leonard, munching a dinner for three at Max Asnas' famous Stage Door Delicatessen, spilled some mustard on his cashmere sports jacket. Asnas offered to have the coat cleaned for him. "Careful, Asnas," warned Leonard, "this is a very expensive jacket." "So what?" countered Asnas proudly. "We use very expensive mustard."

A Harvard senior, working on a juvenile delinquency report for a seminar in sociology, reported difficulty in carrying out one assignment. His task was to phone a dozen homes at random about 9:00 P.M. to ask parents if they knew where their children were at that hour. "My first six calls," he noted sadly, "were answered by children who had no idea where their parents were!"

And The Angel

...of Revelations said: "Gather the clusters of the vine of the earth, for her grapes are fully ripe." How beautiful! How far-reaching is this challenge! It is up to us. Throughout the Bible the grape and the vine hold great spiritual meaning. They emphasize the close union between Christ and His church. We judge the vine from the fruit it bears. St. John warned us in the first place, that the branch cannot bear fruit, except it abide in the Lord. In a spiritual sense, man makes his own harvest. His reaping is strictly in accordance with how well he has taken care of the vineyard, how thoroughly he has supported the charities of the Lord, and how genuinely he has served God.

You In The Church - The Church In You

— form a combination for good. Every man, woman and child needs the influence of the church. So, come let us go into the house of the Lord. Let us support her program of service to humanity, be a faithful worker, a daily bible reader and attend services regularly.

This message is dedicated to the building of a more spiritual and a greater church going community and is being sponsored by the following individuals and business firms who want, as their only return, to see more people attending church. The church needs your support. The community needs the church.
